

Campaign Coverage: Tony Strickland + GreenWave energy

Tuesday, 22 July 2008

The Tony Strickland Campaign sent out an email letting people know their candidate was recently on CNBC to talk about his alternative energy. Click here to see the video.

I am impressed with the level of skill the Strickland campaign runs. It seems like they have something to try to get media attention every week or influence insider opinion about the campaign.

If you see a story I might have missed please email it to me. I don't mean to slight Hannah-Beth Jackson if there are news stories in the Santa Barbara region of the district.

Click on continue reading to see the announcement from the campaign.

Tony Strickland was recently interviewed by CNBC for a program called "Powering the Planet" which focuses on alternative energy sources. CNBC approached Tony for their wave energy segment because of his role as Vice President of GreenWave Energy Solutions, a company dedicated to harnessing the power of ocean waves, reducing our dependence of foreign oil and creating a cleaner, smarter energy future for California.

The following piece appeared on CNBC last week and is now available for viewing on the CNBC website. View the short video HERE.

For more information about Tony Strickland and his important race for the 19th Senate District, visit our website at www.tonystrickland.com